Steve Backshall, adventurer and British TV personality, embarked on his most daring adventure yet: a six-month voyage to six continents in search of 60 deadly creatures. Here they are—and these color photographs bring readers as close as they'd ever want to get to such dangerous game as Africa's Black Mamba, a snake whose lethal bite can kill an adult human in 15 minutes, and the mysterious, carnivorous Ghost Bat of northern Australia.

The book serves as a companion to Backshall's popular TV series, and captures the most remarkable techniques and fearsome weapons in the animal kingdom.

Good support for the show

By Annie1

My son loves the show Deadly 60 so this book was much appreciated.

It covers 60 deadly creatures - some of which will surprise you - in greater detail. The book is aimed at children about the age of 10 and above, as they will benefit most from being able to read it, though any person who enjoys this sort of interest in creatures that can kill you will get some enjoyment from it.

It is not a book that is meant to be used as a reference, as information is not detailed, but adequate.

My boy loves this book....

By KellyO

This book is great. Its a rehash of the show and gives some background on the experiences the crew had while on shoot. Really engaging for a boy (or girl) who loves the show or has yet to see it.

This incredibly down to Earth man is amazing and gives 100 percent to whatever he puts his hand to whether it be writing books and novels, documentaries or public displays. Highly recommended.
